

Case study

A+ in Flooring

The University of Otago - Cumberland Halls of Residence

Bringing in Colour and Design

The University of Otago seized the opportunity to turn Cumberland halls into an energetic, upbeat and youthful environment.

The objective was to inject colour and life into an old nurses home turned student accommodation.

The Carpet Court team embraced the University of Otago's vision, delivering a dynamic flooring design. Colourful, yet durable flooring solutions run throughout the hallways, stairs and the rooms the students call home.

Bringing a fresh new look to the old nurses home, was not without obstacles - old style stair nosing's provided some challenges, while extensive floor preparation was required before new flooring could be laid.

Thorough planning, and understanding the obstacles, ensured the installation went smoothly.

Understanding the Clients Needs

Delivering a seamless transition profile between the hallways was a specific requirement, creating a seamless transition from room to room.

Each floor, of the 5 floor building was given it's own personality with a distinguishable colour difference in flooring colour.

Project Wrap Up

TIME: Job Completed in 3 Weeks

FLOOR: 1100m² flooring laid

PRODUCT: Irvine Equinox and Crossfire Carpet Tiles

TECHNICAL DIFFICULTIES:

Concrete coving to cut into in all rooms and hallways.

OUTCOME:

A fresh and vibrant feel was achieved through design that met and exceeded clients expectations.

Carpet Court
COMMERCIAL

Contact: Richard.Hadley-Jones@carpetcourt.nz